Under the hood of FIFA 22 is the updated Referee Engine, which has been adapted to work with the motion capture technology and delivers greater consistency, accuracy and decisions and decisions. The enhanced physics provides the ball with more movement in specific environments that allow it to behave differently and convey more player intent. Other additions include: “Holographic Goalkeeper” – Each match has a corresponding “Holographic Goalkeeper,” which becomes visible when a player approaches the ball with a view towards the goal that replicates their vision and positioning. The Holographic Goalkeeper reacts in different ways to different game situations. For example, the Holographic Goalkeeper will encourage a player’s shot if there is only one goalkeeper on the goal line. “Snap-Volley” – A new feature in FIFA 22, Snap-Volley allows players to continue with a high-speed shot from the center of the penalty area even if the ball would otherwise drop short or out of play. Shots using this feature will be fired at an increased rate and will be interpreted as a penalty, goal and head shot. “Lob Shots” – Lob Shots help to make dead balls playable by creating new, super low, lobbed shots when the ball contacts the ground, regardless of the direction the ball has travelled in. Such shots are very difficult to defend against and when used correctly, will give a goalkeeper no chance. There are a number of other gameplay enhancements in FIFA 22, including better chemistry between defenders and midfielders, smarter attacking AI and more intelligent goalkeeper play.
