Q: Materialize CSS card popover content not displaying I'm trying to add popover content to a specific card in Materialize CSS. I want to display the title of the card (linked to the "M-Plum" button). My CSS looks like this: `.card.has-text.card-header { font-size: 18px; font-weight: bold; } .card.has-text.card-header:hover, .card.has-text.card-header:active { color: #4b8df8; } .card.has-text.card-body { color: #4b8df8; } .card.has-text.card-title { display: block; padding-top: 0px; padding-bottom: 0px; font-weight: bold; } .card.has-text.card-subtitle { font-size: 14px; font-weight: normal; color: #4b8df8; padding: 20px 40px; } .card.has-text.card-text { color: #999999; font-size: 14px; text-align: center; padding: 20px 40px; } .popover-content { padding: 20px 40px; } .card`

Q: Laravel api to post data I am building a Laravel API where I want to call an Api method and pass some data which is a JSON object. I have tried to do like this `$data = array('name' => 'Allan', 'birthday' => '02/08/1990'); $json = json_encode($data); return json_encode(['data' => $json]);` this is my API code A: you can use something like this `$data = ['name' => 'Allan', 'birthday' => '02/08/1990']; return json_encode(compact('data'));` Even though his involvement is limited to my screen, I think it's worth highlighting the names of some of the people who take time to come and tune in and maybe as a result of their visit, I manage to turn a corner in some form or another. Last week it was Lucy of the Whoreliest House of All, and although it's lovely to know that she's still around (she was the one who tutored me back in the day with a subject I never understood), it's nice to see a little from the wide-eyed and confused newbie I was. I would like to give a shout out to Harold and Allie. It's nice to see you guys, and I love the way you interact with each other, as it's not a pre-programmed kind of thing that exists, but rather the product of complete strangers speaking to each other on a screen and it's lovely to see. Then there's the man who isn't very far along in the game himself but who's still giving support and advice (I think he's got a blog, and he gave me some insights on some of the mechanics). That'd be Tim. I got to meet him at the convention last year and I can only say that he's a really nice guy, even if he does have weird eyebrows. Lastly, for a modest amount of time, we have the lovely Michelle. There's one thing that I can say about Michelle, and that is that she would be wonderful to meet in the flesh. I know I can be really harsh at times, and obviously there are plenty of people who I feel like I'm not very nice towards, but even with her I have
