Music Used, permission to be verified. "All great things are preceded by hard work, and to make real improvements you must sweat blood. It requires you to rethink your positions, to take a critical look at what you believe to be true, and then to continue changing the rest of what you know, until it takes you to where you would like to be. You have to keep on working at it without any guarantee of success." - Alex Marcus

Inhaler: The Tale of the Silkie It's free, but feel free to donate This is my first video, hopefully noob friendly as possible. I've covered a few of the basics but I'm no expert, and I'd like to keep it that way. If you find any errors, please let me know and I'll see about fixing them. I've spent a few days making this, so I hope it's as enjoyable to watch as it was to make. I'd also like to thank the MC Escher sketch that inspired the piece. Music: Drowning - Greg Hore (used without permission) In December 2014, Archie Comics published a set of stories entitled The Archie Archies Featuring Sonic the Hedgehog. It begins with an introduction to the characters and details the stories of each one, including "The Last Day of Winter". While I like all three stories, I thought that "The Last Day of Winter" was the weakest. It was good but, like some of the others, the editing seemed too fast and sloppy. The art in the issue was also a bit weaker than the others, but that is not really a big surprise, considering it was not a particularly well-selling title in its first release. My Rating: 6 out of 10 I made this for the top highlight of the final week of the Ignition tournament. The European Rabbit is one of the most famous examples of how wildly a rabbit can vary. Lucky for us, Call of the Wild makes it available for free play. aHuns Head in the Coal mine. In the depths of a Scottish mine we found a photo of a rabbit with a head like a huns head... Who knows what kind of creature he is, but we like to imagine him as a rabbit with a huns head who has gesticulated in rage. Looking at his photo, makes us feel how different the world is now. But even in this age of man, it appears there is still plenty of that animal world around us. c.2600 BC European wolf theGrey Wolf The Grey Wolf was once fearsome hunter and the undisputed ruler of the prehistoric world. And it was just like today — they certainly still have a lot to worry about. It is not easy to hunt them, which makes them a bit of a status symbol... d.1300 BC Wolf howl d.800 BC Wolf scare the villagers e.Late 1600s Captive wolf in North America f.1880s Wolf hunt i.1940s Captive wolf in the UK i.1940s Captive wolf in the UK i.1940s Captive wolf in the UK Animal Planet GO! Zoos. Mammals: Animal Planet GO! Zoos. Eight pre-historic mammals to keep an eye on In the wild, we rarely see these clever, wonderful animals in person, but that might be about to change. In the third and final part of Animal Planet's eight-part documentary series, the team set off to explore the amazing diversity and sheer force of nature of these incredible creatures, from mammals who like to sit up all day and have heart rates of nearly 400 BPM, to marine creatures which are sometimes the size of an elephant. We start with the likes of the Darwin's beaked whale, the carnivorous spotted hyena and a creature that doesn't have a name in the show, but we do give it a name - the docker bat. What exactly are they? Darwin's beaked whales. The team arrive in Madagascar to capture it's two species of whales and see the archosaurs inherit the oceans. Previously, it was thought that whales had been on the planet for over 400 million years. But new research suggests they were

Q: Extract code from a string of C++ code I have a string like this, it has only C++ code inside it `//(:BEGIN:DEFELSE:END:)//Compiler options #ifdef X #error #endif` I would like to extract the X in a variable or something. The code contains more lines inside the `//()` but not all the lines are the same but they are always the same like above the whole lines of code are not always the same There are also comments like `(:COMMENT:)` and other comments inside the code the lines might not have `//()` but they are the same i don't know how the whole string is formed and how it will look like but i would like to extract just one line or one string like this `//(:BEGIN:DEFELSE:END:)//Compiler options` i know i can use regex but my knowledge is very poor about regex

A: Just as mentioned in the comments: It depends on how the strings are formatted, and depending on how many lines you want to match (only first, all,...) You could look for `//[^]* //` in your string and then match the line/block up until the next `//` or `[^]*` (regex that would match everything except a space or a newline) Then you'd get matched groups that you can use in order to identify the line.
