earthly signs and other supernatural works are part of what the church appeals to in its witness to the reality of the resurrection of jesus christ. revelation is always connected with the resurrection of jesus, because this is the final proof that the one who is the subject of faith is risen from the dead. "and many other signs will i show to you, for a gift of the holy spirit has been poured out on all those who obey him." the church proclaims jesus christ, the crucified and risen one, as he was raised from the dead so is the christian faith rooted in him, because he is the resurrection and the life, by the authority of his resurrection, he orders us to live in this new life in which we are raised to share in his resurrection, and to suffer as he suffered in order to experience his glory, in order to have faith, and love, hope and charity in our hearts: the church, says st. thomas, thus purifies and completes our life. this is the coming of the holy spirit, who is the pledge and the power of our resurrection. the spirit is our victory over all the forces of evil. but the spirit also bears witness to jesus and makes man a temple of the holy spirit. there is no point, therefore, in presenting a list of the special theological problems faced by the church with regard to the evidence of the resurrection, just as there is no point in listing the different references to the resurrection in holy scripture. scripture is full of resurrection. the church, which is the "prayer of all the saints", has experienced the resurrection of christ. the various forms which it has taken are so many ways of receiving the light of the resurrection in its own life.

in this way, we become men of charity: men who live the christian virtues. we are led to love because god so loved the world that he gave his only-begotten son. we are converted to the knowledge of the faith and of the love of god in jesus christ because he himself gave himself for us. the conversion enables us to experience the love of god and to be united to him. let us not say no to the master who has come to give us eternal life and to save our souls. let us not say no to the one who became poor for us (mark 10:45). let us not say no to him who calls us to himself and makes us his friends. let us not say no to him who asks us to become his disciples and live with him and obey him in our entire life. let us not say no to him who can save us from the eternal fire of hell. we want to do god's will. we want to serve god in the way he wants to be served. you may have heard the expression: the communion of saints. the church teaches that the members of the body of christ form a communion, which is a fellowship of holy persons together sharing in the same faith, the same hope and the same charity. the communion of saints is the communion of grace and truth found in the church: the church, says st. augustine, makes the saints: because of this we can say that by prayer, the saints we call upon either increase or decrease in us the spiritual force of the supernatural gifts they received. in this respect the church can appeal to a universally intelligible principle for the exercise of love for mankind: man was created in the image and likeness of god, and in god's love he has been redeemed: this is why we are in duty bound to love him. 5ec8ef588b
