This software is freeware, it's not difficult to use. This software can analyze and record VHS, S-VHS, 8mm, VHS-C, Digital, DVD, VCD, DAT, and N-VHS recordings, including NTSC or PAL format, from multiple video sources. To start the recording, select the "New" button. Select the Video/Audio to record from the video source to the bin (default: Bin0) and the video/audio channel (default: Output). If the Audio Channel and the Video Channel are both set to the same one, the system automatically performs the recording. To pause and continue recording, use the mouse wheel, or use the mouse right button (or the F8 key) on the keyboard. To stop recording, use the mouse right button or the F8 key on the keyboard. If the Info and Manual buttons on the DVD remote control are pressed, this function is automatically done. "Help" button will provide with easy-to-understand instructions. For backup purposes, the bin file can be recorded separately or recorded to DVD. To backup multiple-file recording or a DVD, use the mouse wheel to quickly jump to the other file or DVD folder. Output files (bin or AVI) can be configured as a still image or video recording for email or DVD playing. For HTML and AppleScript-friendly format, output video files are in MPEG-2 format for DVD and AVI format for email. For MP3 format, output files are in MP3 format for DVD and AVI format for email. To specify the output format in detail, you need to click the "Info" button to check the output format. A file for the bin recording is linked and automatically updated to the main window, as long as a file is not deleted. When a file is deleted, a new bin file will be linked to the main window. Note: With the bin file, you can have a video recording or a still image on a disk or an Apple DVD, e.g. a remote control or a TV program, by only linking the bin file with the output files (AVI, MPG, MPEG, VCD). You can also record the bin file to DVD or to a VCD or DAT disk automatically with this software. This version of the product uses our DVD Player to play the media files. It can also have a menu, title, and background music to make video a bit more interesting. You can select audio format from MP3 to wave and can specify the sample rate as well. It can also play and record wave, wav, MP3, WAVE, Real and AVI files. You can also generate a list of recent playing files and DVDs and mark them for future playback.
